HONGKONG, AUGUST 22nd, 1876.

How best they can perpetuate the memory the late lamented Augustus RAYMOND MAR-GARY, who, was murdered in Yunnan in February of last year, has lately been occupying the attention of the residents in the Model Settlement. It was long ago proposed to erect some memorial to that ill-fated young gentleman, who had rendered bimself so popular and made so many friends, and several Committee had prepared a scheine which they thought would find favour with the subscribers. This was to devote the money raised to the orection of a convalencent ward in the General Hospital, Shanghai, and call subscribers was accordingly held at the Royal Asiatic Society's Rooms, Shaughai, on the 15th instant, to consider the question. Mr. MEDHURST, the Chairman of the Committee, pointed out that the smallness of the amount at their disposal, some seven bundred dollars, would not suffice to erect a monument that would be effective and artistic. and on that ground the Committee recommended the Hospital scheme. This did not, those present, by whom it was urged that the proposed ward in the Hospital would be lorgotten after a few years, and that persons would have to be ill before not be prominent, and would soon probably annual report of the Hospital. This would be very well, no doubt, for one or two years, but it is hoped that a time will come when such information will be at a discount, by reason of the Empire being thrown fully open to foreign intercourse. Then there were proposals for the foundation of a scholarship in the native college at Ningpo, or a reredes for the Church of St. Saviour at Hongkew. But neither of these are absolutely free from objection. In the former case, although the idea is a good one, the bulk of the subscribers either reside or are interested in Shanghai, and would greatly prefer the memorial being located in that Settlement while in the latter it is open to much the same objections as the Hospital ward scheme, in not being sufficiently public and conspicuous. To our thinking, a nest clock tower or a public drinking fountain, both of which ideas have been propounded, are preferable to any of the foregoing commission of experts to assist the Officer suggestions, and would find most favour Justice in inquiring into the matter of with the majority of the subscribers, the result is not given. The Prayer-book is illustrated by Callot. Apropos of this auction we may mention that a few days ago the municipality of Havre sold off 20,000 lb. of old papers. Among the receipts was one signed by Berars, commander-in-obief of the revolutionary army who on the 22ad Pluviose, of the year II. received 1,200 f. to transport Despremeant to Paris, where he was beheaded. In one hundle of papers was found a number of letters written out a guardian in a forest shall steams with life 1792 some of whom, belonging to Havre,

And fawe upon him, day by day, His life is but a star that falls, Falls, falls, and fades away.

GORILLAS IN CENTRAL AFRICA. Lieutenant Cameron, in the sketch of his journey which he is contributing to Good Words, says-From Akalunga we went away north with slashing fair winds, mountainous people employed about their cultivation looking like flies on the side of the wall. One. day, passing close in to the shore, I saw a ecuple of gorillas amongst the trees; but we passed them before I could get my gun ready, and when I just back to try for a shot I found that they had disappeared. They were great big fellows, and looked larger than men. The natives say they build a hut every night and make a regular bed-place to sleep on; but they laugh at them and call them tools, as, if caught in the rain, they do not go to their comfortable huts for shelter, but sit cowering out in the open with their hands clasped behind their necks. One or two Arab traders at different places along the coast told me they could get thirty-five pounds of ivery for forty yards of cloth, and a good slave for twenty.
